

Fewer cars on the roads

Carbon dioxide is becoming a big problem nowadays. It warms the planet, causing climate change. So to prevent it even a bit, experts started recommending alternatives to the car, or maybe you have friends that go to work by your house or live nearby, so they could pick you up. Another good choice would be public transport. Some people drive motorcycles or scooters, which is not faster than car, but better than having to walk that distance. So to sum it up, the world needs to start thinking about environment much more.
